

Independent Practice Nurses

Who are Independent Practice Nurses (IPN)?

They are registered nurses in independent practice who manage and provide a variety of diversified nursing and health care services, employing highest quality specialized nursing skills to maintain and improve the health of our clients.

How do Independent Practice Nurses (IPN) contribute to the community?

- Promote healthy life skills and/or provide health care services to individuals, families and groups
- Facilitate education opportunities so that independent practice nurses can continue to develop and implement expert care to those they serve
- Educate the public on the value and contribution of Independent Practice Nurses
- Ensure highest quality standards of nursing care for their clients
- Support research opportunities and encourage implementation of best practice guidelines

What does Independent Practice Nurses (IPN) Membership Mean for You?

- Effective networking opportunities with the benefit of geographical connections
- Significant group influence to effect changes to public health policy
- Facilitate professional growth and development enabling you to impact the larger community including other health care professionals
- Encouragement for the daily joys and challenges of independent practice

Independent Practice Nurses Make the Difference